 - a. Applicant is threatened with utility termination due to debt and has no means of paying off utility debt or negotiating repayment agreement; OR
 - b. Applicant's wages are being garnished and his/her income is not exempt; OR
 - c. Applicant owns real property and creditor is threatening to lien property to satisfy judgment; OR
 - d. Applicant's driver's license has been suspended due to accident that was applicant's fault, no insurance at the time of the accident and applicant needs license for employment or health reasons. If applicant's income is exempt from collection on a judgment give advice, ILRS and pamphlet. Note: We only do these as pro bono referrals and we have few bankruptcy attorneys. Clients should be warned that we may not be able to obtain a free attorney. Also, they will have to pay a filing fee of $200 even if the attorney is free. Also, if the client makes over $20,000/yr., the bankruptcy attorneys will expect to do the case for a fee, not pro bono. Clients with income over $20,000 should only be referred to us in exceptional circumstances.

- CHAPTER(S) OF BANKRUPTCIES: Chapter 7 (99 percent), Chapter 13 (1 percent)
- LIMITS ON REPRESENTATION: We generally take only Chapter 7 cases because we run the bankruptcy practice clinic every two years or so for about six months. Thus, we do not provide bankruptcy services at all times, but only intermittently and the Chapter 7s are more practical under these circumstances.
- REPRESENTATION BY: Practicing law students under the supervision of a full-time law professor.
- ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: All students at the University of New Mexico School of Law are required to complete a 6-credit clinical law course in order to graduate. Professor Martin offers a clinic emphasizing bankruptcy, consumer law, and business law once every two years or so. This is one of the options students may choose. When this clinic is not in place, clients can sometimes receive bankruptcy representation from one of the other clinics, particularly through the Southwest Indian Law Clinic if the client is Native American, or if not, through one of the general practice clinics.
