Dear Members of the Penn State Law and SIA Community,

Congratulations again to our SIA Class of 2020 that graduated this weekend and the Penn State Law Class of 2020 on its upcoming Commencement this Saturday. As we move into the summer, we will transition our Information and Listening Sessions to every other week. The next two Faculty Information and Listening Sessions will be May 12 and 26; Student Information and Listening Sessions will be May 20 and June 3; and Staff Information and Listening Sessions will be May 14 and 28. Class of 2020 graduates remain welcome at the Student Information and Listening Sessions.

We are continuing Information and Listening Sessions over the summer because I anticipate that we will spend substantial time this summer preparing for the fall and continuing to support our students and graduates as they navigate the disrupted employment markets and, for Penn State Law, disrupted bar examinations. To help us prepare proactively for the fall, we also are creating new teams – Teaching Opportunities and Work Opportunities – that will work together with the Response Team to help us learn from this spring’s pivot and develop resources for this fall.

In addition to these every other week sessions, I will plan to do an all-community Town Hall very soon after the University provides an update on plans for the fall semester. I have tentatively scheduled that for Monday, June 15, at noon, but may shift that date and time depending on the timing of the University announcement. I also will potentially shift Information and Listening Sessions to have them closely follow that announcement and Town Hall before resuming an every other week schedule, which is why I am only announcing the next two sessions’ dates. Zoom information is included below for all of these sessions.

As always, we are so appreciative of everyone’s efforts to support one another and are here to support you.

Warmly,
Hari
